

FESTIVAL OF THE ALLIES HAS AFFORDED A FINE WEEK OF ENJOYMENT AND ENTERTAINMENT TO PEOPLE OF EL PASO; A REAL BREAK IN MONOTONY

By OLIVER P. LANDSEN.

THE repeated victory of the allies this month has made everyone so light hearted that the Festival of the Allies is a sea of bubbling mirth and mischief; everyone laughing, throwing confetti and buying roses and flowers, an outlet for the months of anxiety.

As a result of the festival, the past week has been the happiest and busiest week socially that El Paso has had in many days. Have you noticed that the busiest days are usually the happiest ones? Everyone joined in making the festival a success—men, women, girls, boys, nannies and maids; even the wee tots had a strenuous week snatching the groupings in the main places that only the young stars can fill. One almost forgot the anxiety attendant upon the war in the happy effort in making the money to help win it. The strenuousness of the week was expressed by a matron in the Mexican booth, who remarked, "I am too tired to think, but just look at all the money we have taken in. Haven't it been a joy?" So we come to the end of the gala week tired but quite satisfied and ready for the activities of next week, whether they be in Red Cross, home, club, or school.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." If boys, nannies and maids be able to send some cheer "over there," you must walk along the streets with the festival—and for that matter, the war end! It is the question asked Mrs. S. H. Worrell most as she goes in her car and she looks deep within and tells you, "What human man can resist appealing eyes and a soft voice saying: 'Work you have my heart!'"

And the circus parade! You feel just naturally follow it as they used to do when you were a child, and you look at the clown and lay your heart at the dainty feet of the bare back riders.

Of course you buy an ice cream cone from the vivid beauty from Italy, as you stand in the crowd watching the old religious play of the Druids, when the Bride of the Mistletoe is sacrificed.

You feel a little awed at the stately beauty of the queen in the Belgium play, and the lovely beauties grouped around her, so you go and drink tea in the Japanese tea garden and feel nearer earth with the little Japanese girls.

You feel the warm rebuke of the tropics when you gaze deep into the eyes of the dark beauty from Cuba, so you rush wildly to France to get a cup of chocolate to break the spell before you lose your heart.

Then you take a Red Cross nurse and dance until you are hungry enough to eat waffles like mother used to make.

Oh the lots of fun, this Festival of the Allies, and El Paso is glad of the Red Cross thought of it, for we all need these diversions from the everyday affairs of the world. And the beauty about this is that while getting the diversion, the money is going to aid the great work of the Red Cross—for the men who are doing the fighting "over there."

Friday night the crowds were just as large as on the two first nights and this evening promises to be the banner event of the week, for the big festival closes with a bang.

Next week society will return to its usual program—unless the influenza gets in further work and stops everything. But the Festival of the Allies will not be forgotten for a long time.

It is really the best celebration El Paso has ever had—much bigger and more exciting and better in every way than last year's event.

Dr. W. L. Brown and his coworkers have been warmly congratulated upon their efforts to make the affair a success; all the workers have been congratulated, and it has been deserved, for they have worked hard to give the public a real thrill and lots of enjoyment.

Among the many interesting features of the French booth at the Festival of the Allies, under the management of the Equal Franchise League, is an exquisite steel engraving of the White House, artistically framed, autographed and presented to the ladies by president Wilson. This picture hangs in the French booth with a number of other artistic engravings. It will be sold at the close of the festival to the person offering the most money for it, the proceeds to be used for our men overseas.

Each night in this booth dozens of American beauty roses are sold, graciously donated, said Mrs. Henry C. Greer, by members of the league and their friends.

Another attractive feature of this picturesque booth are the three exquisite silk flags of France which hang on the side walls.

A big fine middle horse, the property of Miss Bohlie Davenport, is being disposed of by V. R. Stiles and the horse is being sold for $100.

Miss Davenport purchased the animal from Col. George Langhorne for her own use, but when she learned of the good work for which the Festival of the Allies is dedicated, she donated it to be sold for the benefit of the Red Cross. Miss Davenport is "going over" in Red Cross work as an officer in the new El Paso post office.

not denied so much as on the previous evening when the chief was on hand in all the balance of his gold band.

The large portrait of Porfirio Diaz, which hangs near the entrance of the Mexican booth, presented to Mrs. H. M. Spinnell, chairman of this booth, will be placed in the gift shop at the close of the festival and sold; the proceeds to go for the men overseas. This painting, executed in oils by the celebrated portrait painter, Alex. Murray, was painted in Los Angeles, was presented to Mrs. Spinnell by a brother of the artist, R. S. Murray, who resides here.

There are going to be all sorts of interesting things doing at the society circles at the festival tonight. There will be a most interesting parade at 7:30 sharp and then Miss Ruth Rawlings is going to do feature horseback riding, and Thomas P. Harston, "the strong man," will carry 400 pounds on his back. Fatsy Atkins will be out for words walking the tight rope and all together it will be a wonderful evening in this attractive feature of the festival.

W. S. S. headquarters has been working at the festival to some purpose, with a stand opposite the booth of England. Ed Sanders, E. L. Vale and Victor Carrus are in charge. Assisting the cashier were young misses dressed in war stances, headed by Miss Mildred Boice, who circulated among the crowd and unloaded their war savings stamps in a lively manner. Through the courtesy of ten young women from the Popular Dry Goods company and five each from the White House and China Palace, the sale of postage tickets was accelerated, especially when Victor Carrus put up two big boxes of fine candles, when the competition became very keen. Miss Elizabeth Maguire was winner, with Lee Rhodes and Carolyn Tally next in order. The stand average over $100 a night.

CUTICURA HEALS SKIN TROUBLE
On Baby, In Big Blisters, Gross and Fretful and Lost Sleep.
"When baby was about a month and a half old, both sides of his face, ears and neck were covered with something like dandruff. It was dry and scaly and he scratched until it broke out in big blisters. I had to make little gloves and keep his hands tied up. He was cross and fretful, and the eruption caused him to lose sleep. The breaking disfigured his face."
"I decided to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment. He found great relief and lused two cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment which healed him." (Signed Mrs. Violet Seely, 1322 Burton St., Paducah, Ky.)

Court of Honor at Festival of Allies One of Brilliant Features of Carnival

ONE of the most brilliant displays of the Festival of the Allies is that of the El Paso Federation of Women's club, under the management of Mrs. S. J. Fennell, president. The booth, with its raised dais, is in the center of Franklin street, fronting the main entrance to the grounds. It is lined with green velvet and green and brown bangles. The other decorations are in yellow and green with large palms on either side of the green covered steps. The decorations and Louis XV furniture were all loaned and placed by the Four-Moore company.

Each organization belonging to the federation has a booth to the right of the queen's throne. First in the series is the Washington Circle, Spirit of '76. It is in charge of Mrs. William Wallace and is decorated with numerous American flags, in blue and white. The decorations are in yellow and green with large palms on either side of the green covered steps. The decorations and Louis XV furniture were all loaned and placed by the Four-Moore company.

Next is found the Equal Franchise League booth, with Mrs. A. Louise Dietrich in charge. It is in yellow and white with president Wilson's picture over the entrance. The court of honor is in charge of Dr. Ida E. Bishop. It is decorated in blue and gold with president Wilson's picture over the entrance. The court of honor is in charge of Dr. Ida E. Bishop. It is decorated in blue and gold with president Wilson's picture over the entrance.

The Nurses' association booth is in national colors and Red Cross emblems. It is in charge of Mary Jean, E. S. McDonald, Mrs. Maud Marler, Mrs. Frances E. Logan and Miss Carrie Shaw. Other organizations represented are the auxiliary to the O. R. C. Daughters of Erin, and the Housewives' league.

At 8 o'clock each night the approach of the "Red Cross Queen," Miss Tillie Ehrlich and her court is heralded by the playing of the Red Cross march. She is escorted in full Red Cross uniform. Her scepter is a wand bearing a glowing red cross. Miss Ehrlich is a beautiful, slender young woman and reigns over her court right royally. She is accompanied by her prime minister, Mrs. Maud Marler, courtier, Miss Josephine Bryant and maids from the Martha Washington Hotel, Mrs. Maud Marler, and Miss W. C. T. U. Miss Nellie Foreman.

El Pasoans Away.

Mrs. S. A. Vaughan will visit in Galveston before her return from the meeting of the Eastern Star, Order of the Eastern Star, in Houston.

Mrs. S. A. Vaughan, worthy matron of Harmony chapter O. E. S., leaves Saturday night for Houston to attend the meeting of the grand chapter, Order of the Eastern Star.

Zach Lamm, special agent of the United States state department, is in El Paso on business. He expects to tour the entire Rio Grande border before returning home.

Lieut. W. P. Larsen, of the 83d field artillery, who has been ill at the base hospital with grip, is well again and left on the Golden State Saturday for a leave, which he will spend in Chicago and western points.

Friends here will be interested to know that after an extended trip through the east, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fox have taken an apartment on River side drive in New York city. Their daughter, Miss Charles Fox, has entered school and the rest of the family, Chris, has sailed with his regiment for duty overseas.

It will be of interest to El Pasoans to know that Col. Martin L. Crimmins has been ordered to San Francisco from Camp Funston, Kas., where he has been since leaving here. From San Francisco he will proceed to Japan to get ready to go into Siberia. Mrs. Crimmins will accompany him as far as Japan where she will stay while he is in Siberia.

Miss Rachel Marie Boynton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Boynton, of 215 Thirteenth street, left for a part of the week for Buena Vista, Va., where she goes to enter the Southern seminary. Miss Boynton attended the El Paso high school for two years, making a brilliant record in her studies. She is to be a sophomore at the seminary, specializing in music and dramatic art.
